Healthy Livestock by Best Practise

Improve livestock farming! That is what society calls for. A challenge that we, as industry, are also facing. We will have to support the continuous development of livestock farming. As supplier and manufacturer of high quality veterinary medicinal products the demands from our society are key in our aspirations to contribute to improved livestock farming.

Dopharma fully endorses the 'best practice' thoughts of EPRUMA*. Best practice is key to healthy animals and a healthy livestock sector. Healthy animals are essential for animal welfare, public health and optimal results.

Best practice includes good livestock practices and good veterinary practices (GVP). This includes good farm management, specific knowledge of animal diseases and diagnostics, knowledge of the mode of action of veterinary medicinal products and extensive experience with the correct administration of these products.

As a veterinary pharmaceutical company, Dopharma has the above mentioned knowledge and expertise in house. It is even part of our DNA and determines how we act and take decisions. It helps us to contribute to sustainable livestock farming.

Furthermore, Dopharma is committed to maintain its wide range of pharmaceuticals for livestock and to extent the portfolio with more innovative products. Dopharma wants to be a valuable partner for both veterinarians and farmers and is therefore investing in:

- a species specific experienced, international Technical Support Team of veterinarians;
- the development of innovative products such as:
 - Phenoxyphen® WSP (development of a MRL for eggs) for poultry;
 - Sodium Salicyl® (development of a MRL) and Melovem® 30 mg/ml (high concentrated) for pigs and cattle;
 - Butagran Equi®, a specialised equine product (AT, BE, BG, DE, DK, EE, ES, IT, LT, LV, PL, RO, UK);
- our partnership in public-private cooperation research projects such as for Streptococcus suis serotype 9 for pigs.
